

Miscellaneous Memories/Jottings

Phil Alexander On a phantom day off in the 60's:

Odd the things you remember, but does anyone recall someone winning a painting competition and we all got the day off?

Victor Valente on Phil Alexander.

I remember two things where you were concerned.

First you claimed to have seen or met Adam Faith on the underground.

Secondly because I thumped Harvey [I think that was his name] you gave me a hard slap across my face, which to this day I wish I had responded in kind.

I have been looking at your reunion photos you all look good.

Oh by the way my name is Victor Valente, I live in America so its unlikely I'll make it at a reunion but you never know.

Martin Withers regarding his architect ancestor.

Sir, I came across your website whilst researching the architect R.J.Withers.

It is very interesting to see that you have shown some photographs of your old school, and also you mention that it was never completed to RJW's drawings. It is a pity that modern housing has had to replace the school.

I am a Withers and R.J.Withers was my great grandfather.

Like most family historians I got interested in RJW after my parents had died, and I am now beginning to find out that RJW designed many Churches and schools etc. in England and Wales. He also designed a church in Brussels and one in Germany

Although I am not an Old Harlovian I have found your web site very interesting.

Thank you
